

Highfucious says 💡 ...

You are literally providing free labor to tech companies...you are actually PAYING them to train their LLM's and let their bots influence and let their narrow AI get better in every aspect until they can be combined with enough data center processing and dirty fueled electricity to be one large "mind" that is functionally an AGI.

Highfucious says 💡 ...

It's seems as if everything is quantum and we are in a bubble of relativity. That would maybe explain the constants in relativity and spooky action at a distance. Massless particles, like a photon, could potentially travel FTL within the quantum realm...but within the vacuum of relativity there are constants embedded OR a substrate of fields that are the resistance that is restricting the speed potential. This could explain how data/information could travel through a connection in the quantum spaces instantaneously to us regardless of distance.

This is also high brow gibberish from someone who barely graduated highschool and is super stoned right now 🙄🧑

Highfucious says 🧑

They only love you when you dead...

But hang around "they" said.

Highfucious says... 💡

Hay is for horses but there's two sides to every coin.
You first shoot out your mama's womb,
After first being shot from your papa's groin.
Shit do be kinda weird though ,
Picturing parents porned out banging loins 🧑

Highfucious says 💡

There should be no property taxes unless you own a home over 600k or you own multiple properties.

Highfucious Says

Wisdom and Innocence; two sides of the same coin.
Both can neither be bought, or properly appreciated, by those who obtain them.
Both can be massively enjoyed and profitable for people who surround those who possess either.

The coin flips at some point from heads to the tails end of it all and you go from idealism to realism.

It's those of us that ride the edge of that coin for a while that might have the last laugh.

But we are also at greater risk for going over the edge or never settling down into wisdom fully.

There isn't much decision but I guess it remains none the less....

Highfucious says 💡 ...

You are literally providing free labor to tech companies...you are actually PAYING them to train their LLM's and let their bots influence and let their narrow AI get better in every aspect until they can be combined with enough data center processing and dirty fueled electricity to be one large "mind" that is functionally an AGI.

Highfucious says 💡 ...

It's seems as if everything is quantum and we are in a bubble of relativity. That would maybe explain the constants in relativity and spooky action at a distance. Massless particles, like a photon, could potentially travel FTL within the quantum realm...but within the vacuum of relativity there are constants embedded OR a substrate of fields that are the resistance that is restricting the speed potential. This could explain how data/information could travel through a connection in the quantum spaces instantaneously to us regardless of distance.

This is also high brow gibberish from someone who barely graduated highschool and is super stoned right now 🙄🧑🏻

Highfucious says 💡 ...

The only way any of us are getting reparations is if we stick together and hit that big red billionaires killswitch button those commercials used to try to sell us paper with...and pass that shit back into our country as a whole and try again 🧑🏻...

Probably be wise to start discussing things honestly as well...

How about we try a honestly moral society and run it from the bottom up when it comes to decisions that effect us all.

I don't know...some good old fashioned American democracy mixed with a slight little amount of proletariat uprising sounds about right 👍

IS IT JUST ME OR DID THE SECOND EVANGELICALS ENTERED POLITICS THEY STARTED TRYING TO BE LIKE THR RUSSIAN ORTHODOX IN MOSCOW OR SOMETHING. I GUESS THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE WAS FOR A REASON AND OUR FOUNDING FATHER'S WERE WISE 🦉 ...I DUNNO I'M VERY HIGH RIGHT NOW 💕🙄🙄🧑🏻

Highfucious says 💡 ...

Sometimes I sit around and get high and watch birds take off in flight and fly...and I...oftentimes wonder, who's jealous of whom...them or I?

Highfucious is a bidniss man 🧑🏻

Someone needs to make a handheld digital old school projector that you can create things from your phone, transfer that media to the hand held projector and instead of texts you could be projecting funny shit on the wall or floor if you're hanging out in real life space....it could look like a flashlight 🔦, HD shit... come out with an app and own the whole sphere from the get-go...

Highfucious says 🧑🏻

If God made us in his image, he's a she. How could Christianity/Muslims/Jews possibly justify the patriarchy and highly masculine depictions of God? Why would he send a Son? Why are woman made from Adams rib to be subservient to the husband yet the womb is where life grows? God gives life...yes it takes a man and a woman's genetics together to create...but it's the woman who carries that weight for 9 months, goes through the terrifyingly glorious experience of birthing another human being. How can you possibly explain, other than through force, that all of history is about the "great men" who conquered and ruled and amassed resources of their time? When someone says something is "systemic", this is what they're referring to. It isn't a direct attack on your gender or the color of your skin it's just an acknowledgement that our past humans on this planet were extremely tribal and adrenaline fueled...it isn't necessary anymore to have all this anger and aggression towards one another. We really need to take a minute and relax and reconnect with our home planet together. Everyone can have their own space, and as long as they're not encroaching on someone else's through force...things could so easily be diplomatic and resolved.

Highfucious says 💡

The first thing I stopped caring what other people thought about was how I sat with my legs sometimes. My grandfather sat with his legs crossed and smoked ciggys like a god damn G and I was tall and awkward with tight hips...leg crossing, and owning it...it was 🧑🏻. Miraculously the world didn't end and I was barely teased at all to my face at least.

Highfucious 💡

Figure out what is the right way...and then live that way. Try not to say youre in agreement with something just because it sounds good and resonates emotionally, because then you're stuck later trying to logically defend ideas that further push the boundaries of your true opinions and before you know it you are out of alignment with who you really are and are in a struggle to retake the driver seat from this habitual ego persona. Whether that be virtue signaling or anger and resentment, they both end up spending the same.

Highfucious writes book 💡

A book that starts off authored by a poor person fighting a class war and ends up authored by the same man who found success and became the things he hated while poor but now fully believes them...start off with Marx and end up with Ford/Rockefeller. Have the reader go from understanding and empathy for the character to absolutely fucking hating them.

Highfucious Says

Wisdom and Innocence; two sides of the same coin.

Both can neither be bought, or properly appreciated, by those who obtain them.

Both can be massively enjoyed and profitable for people who surround those who possess either.

The coin flips at some point from heads to the tails end of it all and you go from idealism to realism.

It's those of us that ride the edge of that coin for a while that might have the last laugh.

But we are also at greater risk for going over the edge or never settling down into wisdom fully.

There isn't much decision but I guess it remains none the less....